- The playing space is agreed.
- The game leader stands on one side of the area and the remaining players on the other side (about 20m away).
- The game leader calls out the initials of a popstar or filmstar.
- As soon as the players think they know the answer, they run to the opposite side of the area and back again, then shout out the name.
- When a player successfully guesses the name, they become the leader and call out the initials for the next game.
